The gene encoding TANGO 269 is found to map to chromosome 12. TANGO 269 which is a type II transmembrane protein shows sequence homology to human lectin-like oxidised low density lipoprotein receptor (LOX-1). TANGO 269 may bind oxidised low density lipoprotein (OXLDL) to modulate the pathway. TANGO 269 may be used to AAM25963. The proteins can have activities based on the tissues and cells they are expressed in such as antiinflammatory; antirhumatic; antiarthritic; immunosuppressive; antibacterial; endocrine; cardiant; central nervous system, virucide; anti-HIV, fungicide; antiasthmatic; antiulcer; osteopathic; dermatological; antiallergic; antiasthmatic; antidabetic; cycostatic; neuroprotective; antidapressant; noctropic; antiparkinsonian; and immunostimulant. The proteins and polynucleotides encoding them can be used in gene therapy, antisense therapy and vaccine production. The proteins and polynucleotides are useful for screening for agonists or antagonists of a protein and for the treatment and diagnosis of disorders associated with the activity of a protein e.g. inflammation, neuroptote shock, pancreatitis, cardiac dysfunction, representation, septic shock, pancreatitis, cardiac dysfunction,

The secreted proteins were obtained from human adult placenta, foetal brain, adult testes or adult blood cDNA libraries. The polynucleotides (PNs) and proteins are predicted to have biological activities which would make them suitable for treating, preventing or ameliorating medical conditions in humans and animals, although no supporting data is given. Suggested activities include nutritional activity, cytokine and cell proliferation/differentiation activity, immune stimulating (e.g. as vaccines) or suppressing activity, haemacopoiesis regulating activity, tissue growth activity, activity, haemacopoiesis regulating chemotactic/chemokinetic activity, activity and thrombolytic activity, chemostatic and thrombolytic activity.

The invention provides membrane-bound PRO polypeptides and polymucleotides encoding them. The PRO sequences of the invention were identified based on extracellular domain homology screening. The PRO sequences have homology with proteins including LDL receptors, TIE ligands and various enzymes. The membrane-bound proteins and receptor immunoadhesins, for instance, can be used as therapeutic agents to bit receptor-ligand interactions. The membrane-bound proteins can also be

The PRO encoding sequences are useful as hybridization probes, in chromosome and gene mapping and in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA. PRO nucleic acid sequences will also be useful for the preparation of PRO polypeptides, especially by recombinant techniques.

cc and protein sequences are useful for treating or preventing disorders can protein sequences are useful for treating or preventing disorders can acciated with apolipoproteins, lipases and lipoprotein receptor (ALLY) cexpression and for treating lipid metabolism, cardiovascular diseases and thrombosis. Antibodies against these proteins are useful for cardiovascular diseases and the presence of or predisposition to a disease associated with altered levels of these sequences. ALLY polypeptides are also cuseful for identifying agents (agonists and antagonists) that bind to them and cells expressing ALLY proteins are useful for identifying a constraint expression or physiological interactions of this polypeptide. Cc aberrant expression or physiological interactions of this polypeptide. Cc producing ALLY proteins. Ilpases and lipoprotein receptor proteins. These DNA and protein sequences are useful for treating or preventing disorders associated with apolipoproteins, lipases and lipoprotein receptor (ALLr) expression and for treating lipid metabolism, cardiovascular diseases and thrombosis. Antibodies against these proteins are useful for determining the presence of or predisposition to a disease associated with altered levels of these sequences. ALLr polypeptides are also with altered levels of these sequences.
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             with altered levels of these sequences. All polypeptides are also useful for identifying agents (agonists and antagonists) that bind to them and cells expressing ALLr proteins are useful for identifying a therapeutic agent for use in treatment of a pathology related to aberrant expression or physiological interactions of this polypeptide. Vectors comprising these DNA and protein sequences are also useful for producing ALLr proteins. The nucleic acids and polypeptides of the invention are also useful for the treatment of occlusive cardiovascular diseases, myocardial infarction, cerebral ischaemia, angina, arterial thrombosis, coronary artery thrombosis and cerebral artery thrombosis or intracardiac thrombosis and stroke. The nucleotides of the invention are used in gene therapy. The present sequence is human protein related to proteins involved in lipid metabolism.

The PRO polypeptides and their associated mucleic acids can be used to detect the presence of a tumour in a mammal by comparing the level of expression of a PRO polypeptide in a test sample of cells from the animal and a control sample of normal cells, whereby a higher level of expression in the test sample indicates the presence of a tumour in the mammal. Mammals include dogs, catts, cattle, horses, sheep, pigs, goats and rabbits but are preferably human. The polypeptides can be used to stimulate tumour necrosis factor (TNF) alpha release from human blood, when contacted with it. A specific polypeptide can be used to stimulate the proliferation of differentiation of chondrocyte cells. The PRO

Primers for synthesising the full length cDNA are useful for clarifying the function of the protein encoded by the cDNA. The full length clones were obtained by construction of full length enriched cDNA libraries that were synthesised by the oligo-capping method. The primers enable the production of the full length cDNA easily without any special methods. The present sequence is a polypeptide encoded by a full length human cDNA of the invention.

Note: The sequence data for this patent did not form part of the printed specification, but was obtained in CD-ROM format directly from EPO.

The PRO polypeptides are useful to detect other PRO polypeptides, to link bioactive molecules to cells expressing PRO polypeptides, to modulate biological activities of cells expressing PRO polypeptides, and to detect the presence of mammalian lung, colon, breast, prostate, rectal, cervical or liver tumours by comparing PRO polypeptides, and to detect the presence of mammalian lung, colon, breast, prostate, rectal, cervical or liver tumours by comparing PRO polypeptide expression in a cell sample to that in a control sample. Some of the 275 sequences are also useful to stimulate the release of tumour necrosis factor-alpha (TWF-alpha) from human blood, the proliferation of differentiation of chondrocytes, the proliferation or gene expression in pericyte cells, the release of proteoglycans from cartilage, the proliferation of inner ear utrivillar supporting cells or the proliferation of inner ear utrivillar supporting cells or

The PRO polypeptides can be used in assays to identify molecules involved in binding interactions. The polynuclectides encoding PRO polypeptides can be used to generate probes, antisense RNA/DNA, transgenic or knock out animals and can be used in gene therapy.

They may also be used to produce transgenic animals which are used to develop and screen therapeutically useful reagants. The PRO nucleotide and protein sequence can be used for tissue typing and in treating cancer. Anti-PRO antibodies can be used in diagnostic assays. AAF44270 to AAF44470 represent PCR primers and hybridisation probes us in the isolation of human PRO sequences. AAF4407 to AAF44269 and AAB65154 to AAB65300 represent human PRO polynucleotide and protein sequences given in the exemplification of the present invention.

The PRO polypeptides and their agonists, including antibodies, peptides, and small molecule agonists, may be used to treat various tumours, e.g., cancers such as breast cancer, ovarian cancer, renal cancer, colorectal cancer, uterine cancer, prostate cancer, lung cancer, bladder cancer, central nervous system cancer, melanoma or leukaemia. They are also useful for treating other disorders such as neuronal, glial, astrocytal, hypothalamic and other glandular, macrophagal, epithelial, stromal and histocoelic disorders, and inflammatory, angiogenic and immunological blastocoelic disorders, and inflammatory, angiogenic and immunological

The sequences are useful in therapeutic, diagnostic and research methods. The polymuclectities may be used in the field of molecular biology as hybridisation probes, primers for PCR, for chromosome and gene mapping, hybridisation probes, primers for PCR, for chromosome and gene mapping, hybridisation probes, primers for PCR, for chromosome and gene mapping, hybridisation probes, primers for PCR, for chromosome and sexpressed for the recombinant production of protein, or in generation of anti-sense NA or RNA. The polymucleotides are useful in diagnostics as expressed sequence tags (ESTs) for identifying expressed genes or for physical mapping of the human genome. The proteins may be used as molecular weight markers, or as nutritional sources or supplements. The proteins may be used to maintain and expand cell population in a totipotential or

The PRO polynucleotides have applications in molecular biology, including use as hybridisation probes, and in chromosome and gene mapping. ABL88259 to ABL88267 represent primers and probes used in the exemplification of the present invention.

The PRO proteins and polynucleotides have cardiant, cytostatic, antiangiogenic, hypotensive, vulnerary and antiarteriosclerotic activities, and can be used in gene therapy. The PRO polynucleotides, proteins, agonists and antagonists are useful for treating or diagnosing a cardiovascular, endothelial or angiogenic disorder in a mammal, e.g. cardiac hypertrophy, trauma, cancer, age-related macular

Claim 32; Fig 18; 186pp; English

The invention relates to an isolated secreted and transmembrane polypeptide, designated as PRO polypeptide, PRO polypeptide lacking its associated signal peptide or PRO polypeptide extracellular domain with or without its associated signal peptide. The PRO polypeptide or an antibody binding to it is useful for inhibiting the growth of a tumor cell. A composition containing a PRO polypeptide is useful for inhibiting neoplastic cell growth or for treating a tumour preferably cancer (such as liver, breast, ovarian, renal, colorectal, uterine, prostate, lung, bladder, gastric, pancreatic, vulval, thyroid, central nervous system cancer, hepatic carcinomas, sarcomas, glioblastomas, melanoma or leukaemia) in a mammal. The PRO polypeptide is useful for identifying its agonists. The PRO polypeptide or an antibody binding to it is useful in the preparation of a medicament for treating a condition which is

The present invention relates to the isolation of novel human PRO CC polypeptides, and the polynucleotide sequences encoding them. The CR properties are useful for detecting other PRO polypeptides, for general proteins. The PRO CC polypeptides are useful for detecting other PRO polypeptides, for CC polypeptides, and for for identifying agonists or antagonists. CC polypeptides, and for for identifying agonists or antagonists. CC polypeptides are useful for for stimulating the release of tumour necrosis factor (TNF)-alpha from human blood, for stimulating the proliferation or differentiation of chondrocytes, and detecting the proliferation or differentiation of chondrocytes, and detecting the proliferation or differentiation of chondrocytes, and detecting the propertides are useful as hybridisation probes, in chromosome and CC gene mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green the application of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green the application of antisense RNA and DNA, in the green through the discorders, and in gene therapy. ABU66870-ABU66844 represent the human green contraction of the invention.

The nucleic acids and colypeptides are useful for treating inflammatory diseases, organ cartillar, atherosclerosis, cardiae injury, infertility, birth defects, organic failure, atherosclerosis, cardiae injury, infertility, birth defects, organic failure, atherosclerosis, cardiae injury, infertility, birth defects, organic failure, atherosche and gene mapping, and in generating antisense RNA cor DNA. The polypeptides are useful as pharmaceuticals, diagnostics, biosensors or bioreactors. Both are useful in tissue typing. at least 80% identical to, or the full-length coding sequence of, any of the 275 nuclectide sequences, encoding the corresponding PRO polyceptide (one of 275 secreted or transmembrane proteins). The nucleic acid further comprises the full-length coding sequence of the DNA deposited under American Type Culture Collection (ATCC) accession number in a list given in the specification. Also included are vectors and host cells for producing PRO proteins, PRO fusion proteins, anti-PRO antibodies, PRO extracellular domains and mature sequences, methods of detecting PRO proteins, methods for stimulating the release of TNF-alpha (tumour necrosis factor 'le') 280

The invention discloses human nucleic acids encoding secreted and transmembrane (PRO) polypeptides. Also disclosed is an antibody that Specifically binds to the PRO polypeptide, a method for stimulating the contacting the blood a PRO polypeptide, a method for stimulating the CC contacting the blood a PRO polypeptide, a method for stimulating the CC contacting the blood a PRO polypeptide, a method for stimulating the CC contacting the blood a PRO polypeptide, a method for stimulating the CC cells with a PRO polypeptide, a method for detecting the presence of a tumour in a mammal and an oligonuclectide probe derived from any of the PRO nuclectide sequences. The nuclectide sequences are useful as probes, in chromosome and gene mapping, in generating antisense RNA and DNA, in CC e.g. for replacement of defective gene). The PRO polypeptides are useful as molecular weight markers for protein electrophoresis purposes, for CC chromosome dentification, as chromosome markers, as therapeutic agents, for stimulating the release of TNP-alpha from human blood, for a stimulating the presence of a tumour. The PRO polypeptides and security calls the presence of a tumour. The PRO polypeptides and nucleic acids may also be used diagnostically for tissue typing. The sequences presented in ABU67406-ABU67710 are the PRO polypeptides of the invention.

CC The invention describes an isolated human PRO polypeptide. The PRO CC polypeptides are useful in detecting PRO polypeptides in a sample, in a coll inhing a bloactive molecule to a cell expressing a FRO polypeptide, and CC in modulating at least one biological activity of a cell expressing a PRO CC polypeptide. Novel isolated PRO polypeptides e.g., PRO826, PRO1368, PRO1184, PRO1346 and PRO1375, which stimulate proliferation of stimulated T-lymphocytes are therapeutically useful for enhancing immune response and in cancer treatments

Claim 12; Fig 648pp; English.

The invention describes an isolated human PRO polypeptide. The PRO polypeptides are useful in detecting PRO polypeptides in a sample, in linking a bloactive molecule to a cell expressing a PRO polypeptide, and in modulating at least one biological activity of a cell expressing a PRO polypeptide. PRO1312 stimulates hypertrophy of neonatal heart and is thus useful for treating cardiac insufficiency disorders. PRO1154 and PRO186 stimulate adrenal cortical capillary endothelial growth, and PRO536, PRO943, PRO828, PRO186 or PRO535, PRO926, PRO8187 induce c-fos in endothelial capillar, and endothelial capillar and prossing prossing a prossing or treating conditions or disorders where angiogenesis would be beneficial, e.g. wound healing and antagonist of this polypeptide are useful for treating cancerous tumours. PRO812 inhibits vascular

The invention discloses isolated PRO secreted/transmembrane polypeptides CC comprising a sequence without signal peptide and the nucleic acid CC encoding them. The polypeptides can be used to raise antibodies that Specifically bind to the PRO polypeptide, for linking a bioactive CC molecule to a cell expressing a PRO protein and for modulating at least CC one biological activity of a cell. The PRO polypeptides or polynucleotides are also useful in gene therapy, in chromosome CC identification, as chromosome markers, or in generating probes. The PRO CC polypeptides are useful as molecular markers for protein CC polypeptides are useful as molecular markers for protein CC recombinantly expressing those markers. The PRO polypeptides and nucleic acids may also be used in tissue typing. Anti-PRO antibodies are useful CC in diagnostic assays for PRO, and in affinity purification of PRO from CC recombinant cell culture or natural sources. The sequences presented in CC ABUGOT8-ABUGOZ4 are the PRO polynucleotides of the invention.
